St. Mary's Mission - "It took two long years to raise millions of dollars and get Mission St. Mary's underway. But parishoners said the biggest battle is just ahead."Sherry Vandergraaf "Sometimes adversity brings people together, and this is another step along the way." It was Pastor Michael McFadden's vision to turn St. Mary's church into California's 22nd Mission and now just two months before it's completed, Bishop Jamie Soto will retire Father McFadden at the end of the month. Parishoners are taking action Father McFadden wants to stay. Father McFadden "I hope that it can all be resolved amicably and satisfactorily." Father McFadden planned on retiring a year ago, although delays pushed the start of the project behind schedule. So retired Bishop William Weigand had asked him to stay and see the project through. But with Bishop Soto taking over. Father McFadden "it ends up like some big fly in the ointment in there. I hope I can get that fly out of the ointment and turn them into an angel or something like that and get the holy water at him to get him to fly away."

LuraTech

A statement from Bishop Soto's office reads: "Father McFadden's retirement has been pending for nearly a year and was delayed to put the parish building program on a firm footing. That has been accomplished." Lisa Hyland "This was his vision. We put our faith in his vision and to take that away from him and the parishioners is shocking." Michael Montegomery "This is a family and people want to see the head of the project being involved and seen this brought to barren." "Some parishioners said it took a miracle just to get the project off the ground. Now they're praying for just one more miracle."

Parade Float - That's our float right there, that' you? That's me way back on the other side, my daughter can't find me, I'm on the other side by that photo. It was an amazing ride for Jose Zaragoza and his family. Jose got to ride on the "Donate Life Float" to promote organ donation in this years Rose Parade in honor of his son Matt Zaragoza Gelderen. Jose - We all talk about this special float is the only one that has more meaning then anything else. Three years ago, Matt died a week after this terrible hit while playing football for East Union High School. His family had a big decision to make when he was declared brain dead. Zona Zaragosa/ Matt's Mother - We felt yes to organ donation because we could help another family not suffer the loss we were suffering when my son was declare brain dead. The whole family spent four days in Pasadena helping build the float, sharing stories with other organ donors and recipients and keeping his son's memory alive. Jose - I know my son is happy because everywhere I go I see a #2 and I know he's telling me, I'm right here, I'm right with you Dad. Matt lives on in these four people, recipients of seven of his organs, including his heart and lungs their lives changed by the courage of Matt's parents to pass on the gift of life.

Pursuing Higher Education - When Laura Araque finishes high school this spring and goes to college in the fall - California State University, Los Angeles or Sacramento, she hasn't decided which - she will become the first person in her family to earn a diploma and pursue higher education. "It feels good," said Araque, a 17-year-old senior at Stockton Unified's Weber Institute. "I'm excited to be a part of everything, college, the whole atmosphere of college, moving out." According to the latest data available, Latino students such as Araque account for 27 percent of the California State University's systemwide enrollment. At University of California campuses, figures are lower. Black students, meanwhile, make up even smaller percentages of the student body within both systems.
In an effort that he believes will boost minority participation in higher education, Southern California Assemblyman Ed Hernandez, D-West Covina, has proposed legislation that would amend the state constitution to free public colleges and universities from the limitations of the state's 13-year-old anti-affirmative action law. The challenge of sending more minorities to college is multifaceted, especially locally. In San Joaquin County, just less than 25 percent of high school seniors who earn a diploma have completed the courses required for admission to a CSU or UC campus. Minorities take and pass the so-called "A through G" regime of courses in smaller numbers. Whatever the outcome of the Hernandez legislation, public education officials say they are working to improve and develop programs that help minority students enter and finish college. "We try to tell them this: High school isn't the end," said Tamara Gray, a counselor at Weber. "There's a next step." Passed in 1996, California's Proposition 209 prohibited public institutions, including state colleges, from considering race, ethnicity or gender in hiring, admissions and other decisions. Hernandez proposes to remove public education from the list of state bodies governed by Proposition 209. According to his office, the legislation doesn't seek to create quota or special-admissions systems at the state universities, but to allow campuses to develop recruitment and retention programs that target minority groups. At California State University, Stanislaus, where 85 percent of students come from the Central Valley region, Latinos account for 28.2 percent of enrollment and nearly 40 percent of the incoming freshman class. "We're really proud of the fact that we do have a diverse student body," university spokeswoman Kristin Olsen said. To qualify for admission to a UC or CSU school, students must take and pass courses that satisfy what are commonly known as the "A through G" requirements: art (one year), history and social science (two years), English (four years), math (three years), lab science (two years), foreign language (two years) and elective (one year). At most school districts, those courses correspond with some, but not all, of the requirements for a diploma. If they want to go to a state university, students must be on track with course work by their sophomore year at the latest, counselors said. Janet Hobart coordinates the college and career center at Lodi Unified's Bear Creek High School. "I would say we make every attempt to get all of our students educated on what they will need to go on to a four-year college," she said. "And, of course, some don't really pay attention to that until it's too late to take those classes." Next week, she said, members of an Asian student association from University of California, Berkeley, are visiting Bear Creek. She said it would be helpful to students if public colleges were free to develop more recruitment efforts that focused on specific groups. At Stagg High, guidance chair Andres Uyeda said he agreed. "If more college people could come to our campus and meet with our students ... we could boost our numbers and help kids realize what is out there," he said. "Kids really latch on when these people come on campus." While the university can't target specific minority groups, Olsen said CSU Stanislaus makes regular visits to county high schools and is co-sponsoring a bilingual financial aid workshop with the Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, scheduled for February. But high schools also have taken on much of the work of shepherding students through the college admissions process. They schedule visits, help students with application and financial aid forms, organize seminars for parents. Recently, more than 1,300 Stockton Unified seniors took the SAT in part of a broad, district-sponsored effort to increase the number of students who take the college-entrance exam. Maryann Santella, chairwoman of the student assistance program for secondary schools at the district, said Stockton Unified is developing further efforts to boost the number of students pursuing an education beyond high school. Some programs could start at the elementary level. "Not that they have to make a decision that early," she said, "But to have them start thinking along those lines." Jonathan Buyco, 17, also is a senior at Weber Institute and recently received admission offers from University of California, Los Angeles, and California State University, East Bay. He said he plans to study business. "High school is four years of your life where you need to make real decisions," he said. "Because those are the four years that will decide your future."

University of Sacramento - University of Sacramento will hold its first commencement ceremony Wednesday evening for the university's initial 21 graduates. The graduates will receive certificates in a ceremony at the Cathedral of the Blessed Sacrament for completing three years of study in the catechetics program, the university said in a news release. The university, which launched in January 2005, has more than 145 students enrolled at a downtown Sacramento office building. It offers a graduate program in Catholic faith formation and another in global leadership master's of business administration. The two graduate programs collectively enroll 55 students. University of Sacramento is still pursuing approvals to build an undergraduate campus on 200 acres south of Highway 50 in the proposed Cordova Hills development. The Legion of Christ, a congregation of Catholic priests, runs a global network of higher education and K-12 schools, including 14 universities it founded before coming to Sacramento.

Dixon School District Budget - It's not just sports programs, a 24 percent cut in the Dixon School District budget over two years affects every portion of the budget. One of it's elementary schools, dozens of jobs, and numerous school programs are on the chopping block. - Roger Halberg, Superintendent Dixon Schools "now I'm pitting counseling against sports against closing the school." but that's the decisions we're going to have." While the school board authorized whole sale cuts, how they go about it is still up in the air. Students at Dixon high were told over a loudspeaker today, and weren't happy. Jonathan Mack, Basketball Player "why should everybody get that opportunity and we're obviously trying to get scholarships, we're trying to go to college and we don't that opportunity. Dixon High's new campus is replete with modern sports facilities. Now athletes like soccer player Lizette Vargas may not be able to use them. Lizette Vargas, Soccer Team "I think I'd probably move out of Dixon if that happens." So soccer means that much to you, yes, it's my life. Lonnie Wong "transferring student athletes would be another blow to the district. They get money from the state based on attendance to the tune of about 6 thousand dollars per student.
"We will have sports in Dixon High next year." That's an expression of hope rather than fact. It will take outside help to survive. Tom Crumpacker, Dixon High Atheletic Director "It's going to be a bigger burden on the community, a bigger burden on parents. It's going to involve a vast amount of fund raising and a lot of coordination and organization."

Sacramento Professional Network - "I'm looking for a position in workplace performance.", "human resource management", "safety management". This weekly meeting of the Sacramento Professional Network is a clear example that education and experience can't protect you from layoffs. The Department of Labor says the number of out-of-work white collar professionals has gone up 92 percent over the past year. Members use their combined experience to help each other with resume reviews and mock interviews and they share information. "They're hiring project managers for the army corps of engineers". Lonnie Wong - "it's emotionally tough to be out of work and looking for a job when especially when the money is running out. Dennis Joyner credits the Network for helping him get hired as a help analyst with a financial company and not just with practical tips.
Dennis Joyner - "the best way really is patting you on the back, helping you through the bad times so you're better prepared emotionally. "I had three interviews last week and all three have called me back for second interviews applause". Today, state job consultant Ken Mandler told them how to find a state job even during a budget crisis. "the state is always hiring." Newcomer Lee Lee Wohlwerth, Sac Professional Network Member, "so you learned something today oh I totally learned something today, I'm glad I came just for that."

Sac City College - If you've never been to college, scenes like this can be intimidating. Those students seem to have it together, know their way around. But don't be fooled. I got a lot of help from people. Students we talked to admit they struggled with their college application and financial aid forms until they got help. It was nice for someone else to handle all the paperwork. Shannon Culmo is a counselor at Sac City College and wants prospective students and their parents to know that's what they're here for. So, I think the biggest thing for students is asking questions. And if they're not sure what questions to ask, say that. We start to see students usually right before the fall semester starts, which is not when we want to see them. March 2nd is a key deadline. Students want to have their financial aid ready and going for the fall. March 2nd. So have you filled out any college applications or anything like that? I filled out a lot. So many applications this senior says he can't remember them all. And doesn't think he would have gotten it done if it weren't for the help he got at his high school. I just wanted to do it all here because any questions I had they were answered right on the spot. High schools like Luther Burbank try to reach students early and help them realize college may be an option, even if kids come to that realization late. The school or school district can help with the forms. Maybe a parent needs it translated for them. They don't understand some of the terminology being used. Maybe they're the first in the family. They don't understand the application process or how to obtain financial aid and so we have teachers here who work one on one. For some the obstacle is simple computer access. Many forms must be submitted on-line. These places provide including the College and Career Center at the Sacramento public library. Wow, I never knew you were here, is usually what I hear, and that's kind of a surprise, because we've been here for almost 10 years now. They have computers set up just for college and financial aid applications. Joanne Verdon says she can walk students or their parents thru it line by line. This can be a trying time, it's just like a big rush to me now. I'm a senior so it's just being crammed all in my face. The stress is real so are the solutions. We've gotten such great feedback you know. Keep the workshops running because it was really helpful to me and my child.

Baptism By The Pope - ELEANOR SIERRAS IS 7 WEEKS OLD AND TONIGHT SHE'S GETTING BAPTIZED. THOUGH IT WILL BE EXCITING, IT DOESN'T QUITE COMPARE TO HER MOTHER'S BAPTISM. Seven people from around the world get baptized by the pope every year. HEIDI SIERRAS WAS CHOSEN AS ONE OF THE SEVEN. Your parish just has to petition for it and if you get accepted you can send someone. HEIDI HER HUSBAND AND HER TWO OLDER CHILDREN WILL FLY TO ROME FOR THE BAPTISM, JUST BEFORE EASTER. HEIDI SAYS IT IS A REAL HONOR, BUT DOESN'T QUITE KNOW WHAT TO EXPECT. I'm not sure what i'm going to be doing, i'm quite nervous.

Rancho Cordova's Centerfold's - "You just have to decide what's right for you and what's best for your family." And in these tough economic times, stripping at Rancho Cordova's Centerfold's is what's right for 23-year-old single mom, Alexandria. "My main concern is that my son is happy. He's super happy. He's happy all the time. And I could afford things for him I probably couldn't at my age, you know?" Just two years ago, Alexandria was a full-time student studying real estate, while working in the postal service. But earning a *thousand bucks a night as "Cameron," enables her to spend more time at home with her 3-year-old son, although that comes at a cost as well. "At first, it was really hard because people that you think are your friends, or your family all talk behind your back about you. It hurts you at first." "I think the economy is teaching Americans how to really use their resources and how to be stronger, more business-minded individuals." But no smoking-mirrors, Alexandria knows that her son will eventually learn what she had to do get them through the tough times. "I'm gonna have to explain it to him the best I can." Those tough times still bring in about six hundred dollars on a slower night, and Alexandria's goal is to save for a house. She eventually wants to walk away from all this to become a nurse. But she always wants her son to remember how she got them there. "I just want him to remember how things were before." "So, I'm just hoping that he appreciates everything."

Belly Art - CARLA TARANTINO-MARIE IS MAKING HER PREGNANT BELLY AN ART CANVAS AS A KEEPSAKE OF HER PREGNANCY. "I planned this to be my only baby and only pregnancy, so I wanted it to be extra special in every way. It's going to be a nice way to make my big round belly to feel a little more festive and maybe pretty." BELLY PAINTING IS A GROWING TREND AMONG EXPECTANT WOMEN. THE AMERICAN PREGNANCY ASSOCIATION ATTRIBUTES IT TO THE INTERNET-WHERE ONE PHOTO CAN INSPIRE MANY PEOPLE. THEY THINK HENNA TATTOOS AND BELLY PAINTING CAN ADD TO THE EXPERIENCE. Brad Imler, American Pregnancy Association "These are fun things to make that nine month journey easier and more enjoyable." THAT SAID, THEY DO HAVE SOME IMPORTANT TIPS. Brad Imler, American Pregnancy Association "First consult their healthcare provider, then following some safety guidelines." CONSULT YOUR DOCTOR BECAUSE THEY MAY BE ABLE TO TELL IF YOU MIGHT HAVE AN ADVERSE REACTION. IT'S RECOMMENDED YOU NEVER PUT A REAL TATTOO ON YOUR PREGNANT BELLY. IF YOU'RE USING A HENNA TATTOO, BE SURE IT DOESN'T INCLUDE BLACK INK. Brad Imler, American Pregnancy Association "They have been chemically treated and that's one of the things that, that women want to avoid." IF YOU'RE BELLY PAINTING, BE SELECTIVE, TOO. RoByn Thompson, Artist "You want to use ideally water based theatrical makeup. You want to make sure what you're using is something hypoallergenic and FDA compliant." AVOIDING CERTAIN PAINTS IS KEY. RoByn Thompson, Artist "Acrylic, latex, craft paints, tempera just because something says that it's non-toxic does not mean it's appropriate for use on the skin." CARLA LOVES THE WAY HER BELLY ART TURNED OUT. IT'S A PEACEFUL SCENE THAT REMINDS HER OF THE THINGS SHE LOVES, LIKE GREECE AND DOLPHINS! Carla Tarantino-Marie, Expectant Mom "My husband is very excited to see it. Later, we'll definitely take pictures of the belly."

Cooking for Money - It's a classic, people cooking up burgers, some have it down to a science. Which is exactly why researchers at U.C. Davis are so fascinated by them. Our interest is understanding the public and understanding people having more insight into this basic American cuisine. They hope to do that, by watching chefs in action. We're not talking professionals just everyday folks like you and me. We're interested in how people cook hamburgers for their family whether they grill them, cook them in a fry pan, use an electric grill, whatever. We would like to hear from more people, locals, throughout Northern California. So they can get some insight into how we do things here. At least from what we've seen here. People cook burgers in very different ways. It wouldn't be a very interesting study if everyone cooked it the same way. How they decide what to do, where they developed their recipes. How they decided on their approach. Why they cook things the way they do. Here's what's in it for you. Sign up and you'll be given the meat, Frozen, the buns and salad fixings. Plus a bonus $50 gift card to a local grocery store. In exchange you must agree to have your food prep videotaped, the whole thing. Sort of like reality

Domestic Violence - He's a popular R&B singer, accused of beating his pop star girlfriend Rihanna, who reportedly is standing by her man. To grasp the severity of the alleged attack, take a look at Rihanna's battered face, a far cry from the pretty pop star we're used to seeing. She shouldn't be with him. Whether or not if she's in love with him, that's not love to get beaten down like that. You only get so many chances. Especially with something like this there's zero tolerance for me. You're not a man if you hit a woman. Experts at WEAVE, a women's crisis center in Sacramento, say the unfortunate incident is a chance to raise awareness about domestic violence. They worry a reconciliation between Brown and Rihanna could set a bad example for their fans. It's really hard to understand how somebody who's in a violent relationship is feeling. Hassett says there are a number of reasons women return to abusive relationships. Love, people have kids together, they want to make it work, they have a history with this person, their friends and family like the person, their lives are intertwined. Mr. Mom - For more than 20 years, Ed Summers has worked in the construction business. But ask him what he does now and he'll tell you, "I'm a stay-at-home dad taking care of my two sons." Ed was laid off in October. And he isn't alone being Mr. Mom, while his wife heads off to work. The deepening recession is forcing changes in the family dynamics. In Solano County where they live, the unemployment rate is at 10 percent, crossing into double digits for the first time in nearly 20 years. "It's tough when you've been working for as many years as you have and with the economy the way it is, and needing that duel income to live in California." Ed's wife, Annette, took a job in the Silicon Valley where she heads marketing communications for a science research group. Annette Summers - "we pull together, it's tough, I'm overnight some nights to be where I need to be to help support the family right now." "it's stressful, it's fun. It's hard on the boys not having their mom around. But we get by." After getting the boys ready for school, Ed's back home on the computer looking for a job, in between doing household chores. "It's not easy. It's easier to work than it is to stay at home and take care of the kids. I'll tell you that." Many sacrifices had to be made, like giving up vacations and even just going out to the movies.

Saving History - "It's an iconic structure for downtown Placerville." The Fausel house was owned by a beer making family known for producing the best steam beer in the country. The family's Mountain Brewery next door didn't survive Prohibition, but the house did. It was on the verge of collapse, until the Anova Architects bought the property for its new offices. Instead of tearing it down, it was reinforced. Jeffrey Lubenko, Anova Design Director "...and we had movers come in and pick it up and move it about thirty feet to where it's current position is." That allowed the construction of an award winning office complex known for its green design. "notice that there are no lights on." Seven foot tall windows bring light into the building, as well as a view of the complex's centerpiece. "We kind of call it our jewel that we all look out on and of course our building forms a nice contemporary backdrop to the old historical building." Lonnie - 'the porch on the old Fausel House was rebuilt five times over the decades. That means it took some historical detective work to make sure this landmark was properly restored." This is not a superfical makeover. It's now seismically safe and awaiting conversion into an office or retail space. The grand plan wasn't always understood. "There were a lot of angry people who felt we were desecrating it." Now it's likely to stand for another 150 years, if not more.

St. Patrick's Day -I think in a bad economy this good time is just what the doctor ordered for everyone, everybody wants to have a bit of fun. Once you entered this booming block party there's no question what holiday is being celebrated. There's lepracons and you get to find four leaf clovers. Kevin Johnson - all this energy and vibrancy and excitement and diversity, streets closed down, live bands outside, people don't know what to do with themselves. It's a city on the move. It's so exciting. To keep this event fun and safe they're controlling access in this area only limiting 2,000 people in here at one time, but as you can see the street with a sea of green. One of the things we learned on New Years Eve event on K street was that there wasn't enough port a potties you had people urinating in public so that because an issue now 20 port a potties lined the street making sure that didn't happen again. Along with private security Sacramento police officers patrolled outside and inside the party. If anyone got out of line they were quickly escorted out leaving more room for dancing and an Irish beverage or two. These determine my feelings, right now I'm happy. Sacramento deserves this, it's a great city it's the capital of CA every major city I've ever been to has a big St. Patrick's day event it's a sign of things changing becoming part of downtown and midtown and embracing it. Unwed Mothers - It's just kind a like my kids, my job and school and that's it. I don't have the relationship burden part. Tiffany Walker's family pictures adorn her living room wall but it's not the traditional family portrait of a married couple and their kids. She's got the kids but no husband. Her story is part of a booming trend. In Tiffany's case she wanted to marry the father but couldn't afford the nice wedding she wanted. I didn't want to just go to the courthouse and just get married just to say we did it and we're married. Cohabitating couples, 50-percent of the time they break up within the first 5 years of a child's life, married couples it's 25-percent. Carolyn Curtis is the Executive Director of "the Healthy Marriage Project". The local program teaches classes on how to make the transition from couple to family. Carolyn Curtis, Executive Director, The Healthy Marriage Project - The research is just unbelievable about what happens when children are not raised by parents that are married. They are at greater risk for getting in trouble, they do poorer in school, less likely to go to college. Still many of these unwed mothers say that not getting married is in the best interest of their kids. If you come from a family where your mom is stuck with your dad or your dads stuck with your mom just for the children, would they of rather their parents were split up that way there was a lot less tension in the home, that's the question we should be asking.

Questions Parents Need to Ask - Most kids, even if something negative did happen aren't just going to blurt it out. They're going to need to be drawn into a conversation. Beth Hassett should know as executive director of Weave (Women Escaping a Violent Environment), she works with adults and their children often fleeing various forms of abuse and says one of the best messages we can give our kids. Just because somebody is in a position of authority, doesn't mean that they're necessarily a trusted person. If they have uncomfortable feelings about that adult they should report their feelings to somebody they trust. As a parent, you would hope that "trusted person" would be you but that's only if we lay the groundwork. Often in situations of abuse kids blame themselves and Hassett says they have to feel safe sharing things with you. Make that a routine in your family's life to talk about the good and the bad. So kids feel comfortable talking about what's going on in their lives. Monitor your kids for subtle signs like is he or she much quieter than usual, seems upset or agitate, isn't sleeping well or isn't eating. It might be a bully on the playground, who knows so ask questions. Not ones they can answer with a yes or no, think, open ended. It might be how's your new teacher working out?. What's it like in your class this year versus last year. What did you do at recess? Asking those questions that will inspire a kid to talk about their day and their feelings.

YouTube Tutoring - It never seems to fail, no matter how hard you study sometimes you just hit a wall, like Nicole Nissim did in math. I was mainly struggling with trig functions and equations. She was always using YouTube to watch funny videos. You name it it's on there. So on a whim Nicole typed in tutoring videos and look what popped up. We want to add phase shift to the properties of the graphs of the trigonometric functions. All sorts of clips with posters explaining complicated equations. After five views, she found one where the instructor made things crystal clear. The way he did it online, he took more time in it and because I could rewind it and go back it made it easier to understand. Other high school and college students are finding similar success.. Math and science tutorial videos on YouTube are scoring thousands of hits! Education experts aren't surprised the free tools are a hit. It makes content come alive in a way that a static textbook simply can't. On top of that Ann Flynn of the National School Board Association says the technology allows for different learning styles. Some students do better seeing and hearing, than by reading. Hearing it explained by someone else just with a slightly different set of terminology or a different set of examples can give you that breakthrough moment of learning. Just because a tutoring video is free, experts say don't assume that it's accurate. Before choosing a video make sure you've got a credible source. With any tool, looking at who the creator of content is, is what you're seeing in that content match up some ways with what you're already familiar with about the subject? That's how Nicole weeded out her choices. In addition to trig, she's found video tutors for biology too. I would highly recommend YouTube for people who are struggling in certain courses.

A Place Called Home - So are you just like waiting to get a tattoo? Yes, I'm very much waiting. I really can't wait to get one. You heard him. Angelo is 16. Too young to get a tattoo but he's counting down the days until he can. I'm very excited for that. For now, this rock n roll fan complete with lip piercing will have to make due with a fake tat. Courtesy of the legendary Wild Bills' Tattoos in Roseville. I like that one just fine. Angelo says he's not worried a tattoo might scare people off. Believing there are others out there who might see this and be just fine with it and him. He's got friends but he's looking for a loose, sort of laid back family. He sees other kids with parents, something that's eluded him for some time. I really don't like when people complain, oh, I don't like them. I don't like my dad and so then I pull out the card, you're lucky you have one. Family is just an emotional thing that I feel like everyone needs. For now, Angelo has been pressing on trying to catch up in school, He's gotten pretty good at archery he's even tried snowboarding. But at 16 should anyone have to stop learning. To tell you the truth, I really don't know. I have no idea what I can offer a family. Wow! I'm stumped. The ink is dry, but temporary, Angelo's story is real. This teen needs A Place Called home.

Community Partnership for Families Stockton- California first lady Maria Shriver is scheduled to meet with families at a resource fair scheduled from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. today at the Dorothy L. Jones Community and Health Center, 2044 Fair St. The resource fair, hosted by the Community Partnership for Families, will include representatives from agencies and organizations that offer assistance to families in San Joaquin County. Shriver, scheduled to arrive at the fair about 1 p.m., will meet with neighborhood families and tour the Jones center. She also will be discussing her 2009 WE Connect campaign, a public-private effort that aims to help struggling families. WE Connect focuses on promoting the Earned Income Tax Credit - a federal tax program in which some low-income wage earners can qualify for money upon filing. The average amount returned to EITC participants in 2006 was $1,900. WE Connect also is working with nonprofit organizations, small businesses and other groups to link families to other government programs developed to assist them, such as low-cost auto insurance, the AT&T California Lifeline phone service, job training, health care and mortgage counseling.

Dixon School District Budget - It's not just sports programs, a 24 percent cut in the Dixon School District budget over two years affects every portion of the budget. One of it's elementary schools, dozens of jobs, and numerous school programs are on the chopping block. - Roger Halberg, Superintendent Dixon Schools "now I'm pitting counseling against sports against closing the school." but that's the decisions we're going to have." While the school board authorized whole sale cuts, how they go about it is still up in the air. Students at Dixon high were told over a loudspeaker today, and weren't happy. Jonathan Mack, Basketball Player "why should everybody get that opportunity and we're obviously trying to get scholarships, we're trying to go to college and we don't that opportunity. Dixon High's new campus is replete with modern sports facilities. Now athletes like soccer player Lizette Vargas may not be able to use them. Lizette Vargas, Soccer Team "I think I'd probably move out of Dixon if that happens." So soccer means that much to you, yes, it's my life. Lonnie Wong "transferring student athletes would be another blow to the district. They get money from the state based on attendance to the tune of about 6 thousand dollars per student.
"We will have sports in Dixon High next year." That's an expression of hope rather than fact. It will take outside help to survive. Tom Crumpacker, Dixon High Atheletic Director "It's going to be a bigger burden on the community, a bigger burden on parents. It's going to involve a vast amount of fund raising and a lot of coordination and organization."

A Place Called Home - 8-year old Tajanea, 6-year old Denisha and their 5-year old brother George are ready to tear it up at Sky High Sports in Rancho Cordova. This is fun, but this is just one hour in a weekday afternoon. Like, I've been crying because no one would play with me. Right now the children are living in separate homes. The two girls in one and their little brother in a different setting, the goal is to bring them together in one place, one permanent family. What does family mean to you? It means you're special. Don't they ever drive you crazy? Um-um .. No? You just loving having them around? (shake head yes). Sometimes its hide and go seek, Dodge ball and coloring. I like to play motorcycles and cars. Can you picture yourself doing that too? These kids can and then some, they're together, but alone. Dreaming about a new life with a forever mom and dad. What would you want to do with a mom? Make cookies and bake cakes. What do you think that will be like when you get to stay in one spot? It will be fun, and nice. The people will play with me and I won't have to cry no more. Ring around the rosies. A trio of siblings living a circle of ups and downs wishing to be grounded, in A Place Called Home.

Tent City - It's pretty hard, pretty hard. All I do is make things happen for me and my wife so we can survive. In Sacramento's tent city, it is a game of survival. But with nearly 300 homeless people camped out in unsanitary conditions, the city says this can't go on. We can not allow de facto tent cities to exist with people living in third world conditions that are inhumane. Mayor Kevin Johnson called an emergency meeting with community members to develop a game plan to correct the problem. A task force was established -- the first step in helping the city's homeless population. Before we go out to the camp sites and talk to people we have to have some very viable options for people to choose from. That is a commitment I will hold very firmly to. This after reports earlier this week that the homeless would be forced to move out of tent city by the end of the month using police force if needed. Johnson says he doesn't think it'll come to that. You're eating for two? When's baby due? Until something is done the Baldizam family says it'll continue to feed the homeless from the back of their car every other week. We're always comfortable in our homes. We're always fed. These people aren't. That's all the garbage next to my house over here. For Andre Gayet a solution can't come soon enough. He's fed up with the homeless who set up camp not far from his home. This is a private residence. We shouldn't have to put up with this kind of stuff.

Synagogue Vandalized - On the back of this pillar were swastikas, and more profanity and other nasty names I don't care to repeat. She doesn't have to you can see some of it here. Vandals spray-painted anti-Semitic slurs on a Modesto synagogue. It's very hurtful to be pointed out that way in such a vicious manner. It's intolerable. It's despicable and it's not tolerated in this community, nor should it be tolerated in any community. Police are investigating this as a hate crime. The vandalism at the Congregation Beth Shalom was caught on tape. The two men take just three minutes to do their damage. Right here on our scroll in the front was black, it said Nazi, and I think it said Hitler. Sadly, this isn't the first time the synagogue has been targeted by vandals. The surveillance cameras were installed three years ago after a similar incident. Right away I thought, I can't believe this is happening again. Congregation members did their best to clean up the graffiti. But it's already left some painful scars, especially for those who lived through the holocaust. When they see the light shine through the windows and they still see a swastika because we weren't able to clean it all off, they're going to be crying.

Police Use Surveillance Cameras on City Streets - Sacramento City Council Member Sandy Sheedy has provided funding to the Sacramento Police Department to install three surveillance cameras to deter crime on Del Paso Boulevard. The Sacramento Police Department was approached by Council Member Sheedy about the possibility of providing surveillance cameras along the Del Paso Boulevard corridor. Council Member Sheedy provided the funding for the infrastructure of this program. The Sacramento Police Department has installed surveillance cameras along Del Paso Boulevard at Forrest Street, at Fairfield Street, and at El Camino Avenue. The surveillance cameras will be used primarily to record activity near businesses, along the streets, and will be reviewed for potential evidence if a crime occurs. The police department respects the privacy concerns of individuals and has taken measures to exclude private residences from being recorded that are not under investigation. The Police Department has had great success in apprehending suspects caught on surveillance cameras committing crimes. We believe that the additional measure of closed circuit surveillance cameras on Del Paso Boulevard will be another tool to help prevent crime in the area. On Wednesday, January 7, 2009, at 1:00 p.m., the Sacramento Police Department will hold a press conference at Del Paso Boulevard/ El Camino Avenue. Council Member Sheedy and Police Department personnel will be present. Please contact Sergeant Norm Leong at (916) 221-0420 with any further questions. Elk Grove residents can give their views on proposed increases in fares for e-tran riders at meetings Wednesday and Thursday in City Hall. City leaders have called for a review of fares. Under the proposal, single fares would increase to $2.25, up from $1.50 for the general public. Students, senior riders and those on Medicare would pay $1.10, up from 75 cents. The cost of all transfers would double, to 50 cents. Other fares would rise, too. Unrestricted monthly passes, for example, would jump to $100 for the general public, up from $60. The meetings at 1 p.m. Wednesday and 7 p.m. Thursday are in City Hall, 8400 Laguna Palms Way. The proposals will be presented to the City Council on Jan. 14.

In today's closed door session city council gave the city manager permission to proceed with the city's 6 employee groups to open up contracts in an effort to minimize layoffs. The city manager will go back to city council open session next Tuesday with the results of those talks and layoff should take place by the end of next week. Lincoln city employees, including police and firefighters, were notified Monday there will be layoff announcements as early as Friday. "There is no question there will be layoffs, but how deep the cuts will be and what the service levels will be remains undetermined," said Jill Thompson, city spokeswoman. Thompson said public safety personnel would be among those affected, but details would not be available until Friday at the earliest. On Thursday, City Manager Jim Estep will meet in closed session with the City Council to decide how many employees will get layoff notices, Thompson said. The layoffs are the result of a $1.5 million shortfall in this year's $121 million budget. During the past eight years, Lincoln's population grew from 9,000 to nearly 40,000. But like other area cities, growth has slowed sharply in the past year, biting into development fees and sales tax revenue. Since late November, the city manager has been looking for ways to balance the budget without layoffs. Estep has met with the city's labor groups for their input. The city employs 230 people, including part-time workers. Back in November the council had hoped it could avoid layoffs by imposing work furloughs. The plan would have reduced salaries by leaving employees with 10 to 12 unpaid days annually. The city already has dipped into its savings. The reserve has been reduced from $3.8 million to $1.6 million to cover the shortfalls so far.

The city of Sacramento is looking at a budget gap of between $11 million and $12 million in the current fiscal year, meaning drastic cuts are likely in the coming weeks. Mayor Kevin Johnson told The Bee on Monday that "the outlook is not good" for the city. The City Council is scheduled to tackle the midyear budget situation in a Feb. 10 hearing. Asked if it is likely city officials will need to make cuts next month - either through layoffs or reductions in services and programs - Johnson said, "I think we will have to." "What I'm trying to do is for us to avoid laying people off," the mayor said. "If we get into a situation where we have to cut programs and services and that's not enough, it's going to be difficult for us to avoid laying people off. I just hope and pray we're not in that situation." Johnson released the dire budget numbers the day before he and the City Council will vote on whether to sign a contract with a New York-based auditor to perform a third-party examination of city expenses. The mayor secured the services of Alvarez & Marsal last month, but the contract needs council approval. Alvarez & Marsal would look at three to five city departments and offer recommendations of how the city can save money.The contract would cost the city nothing if the firm does not find at least $380,000 in savings that are put into effect. If more than that number is saved, the work would cost the city $190,000.

When I think about the potential increase loss of lives and property risk and injury, that's just not something I support. Public safety is a priority, that message from the Sacramento City Council, that voted against a second round of fire engine brownouts. But council members must still come up with a way to offset the roughly half million dollars it would've saved. There is no more money to continue to do things the way we've done things. Everyone has to make a sacrifice. The Sacramento Fire Department was scheduled to begin rotating closures of two engine trucks per day starting next month. City officials will now look into tapping into other city funds to prevent that. The fire chief says he's willing to do what it takes. There is no conversation that we're afraid to have or unwilling to look at. We're willing to look at all of that. Chief Jones says the department has already made several cutbacks. Including eliminating its tactical team and internal affairs division and freezing managerial positions. Fire administration has also taken a five-percent pay cut. That was an absolute necessary thing for us to do. It sets the tone so that everyone knows that we're willing to make those cuts.

Kevin Johnson Report - People want public safety. It's a top priority. People want great schools for their kids. People want economic development and jobs. Three key issues Sacramento Mayor Kevin Johnson promised to tackle during his first 100 days in office. So has he made good on his word? We got more police officers on the street which is important. We held a gang summit. We're going after homeland security dollars to make sure we have more resources for public safety. Johnson and the city council avoided police layoffs by negotiating with the police officer's union to take labor concessions. He also managed to prevent any further fire department brownouts by making cuts in other areas. On the education front I talked about having an education summit. We held that on Monday of this week. Huge sell out. Standing room only. There's been a lot of discussion, but not a whole lot of action. Some Sacramentans say, give it some time. One hundred days, you can't really judge a man by that. Give him a little while, a year or two to see what happens. Others already have an opinion. I'm a little disappointed that Kevin Johnson immediately wanted to increase his power. It looked like he just wanted to be like Obama. I think he's a charismatic guy. I think he can probably bring in some outside investment to Sacramento. New development is coming to Sacramento. Just last night, the city council approved plans for the redevelopment of K Street. We had a very ambitious goal and agenda going forward. I think we're on track to do that.

Tattoo Subsidy - Folks getting their tattoos removed are not squirming in their seats as much as angry taxpayers. In fact a new government handout is hitting a nerve. Two hundred thousand dollars, especially in a time when people are loosing their jobs, facing foreclosure, uncertainty about their jobs, the money could have probably been better spent elsewhere. That's right 200-thousand dollars will be set aside for a California program aimed at helping folks wipe their tattoo slate clean. People had the option to take the tattoo, they should also have the option to remove the tattoo at their cost, and not the governments cost. The majority of people looking to get tattoos removed are doing it because they need to find a job but without a job how can they afford the removal. Its sort of like getting stuck between a rock and a hard place or in this case in a needle and a soft place. Michael Hare, Owner, The Exotic Body - Most of the time what they're doing is Tattoo removal on Gang Members and people that are really trying to turn their life around. Michael Hare, Owner of "the Exotic Body" explains how this government subsidy can actually help tax payers. If they're trying to get out of a gang, it's cheaper to remove a tattoo and get out of a gang, than to do gang crime and spend the rest of their life in prison. It's cheaper to remove a tattoo than to house an inmate. It makes a difference in each individual and become a productive member of society and pay better taxes and it's less of a burden on the state. Still many feel that in this economic slump the government should be concentrating on removing debt instead of tattoos. We could have spent that money for after school programs, we could have spent that money maybe taught about a thousand kids how to use a computer, things that they could need in order to get their next job.

He was really nice to the kids. He had a lot of fun with us. He was a great teacher. Many students at Futures High School in North Highlands are defending their former teachers Eric Gladden and Monica Alarcon. Gladden's accused of inappropriate conduct with up to five female students, ages 16 and 17. Alarcon was arrested for allegedly trying to help him cover it up. From what I'm hearing, all these accusations, I don't believe none of them because as I know, he was a great person. But Gladden's neighbor sees a different person, who he says invited teenaged girls to his apartment to party. They looked really young. They would drink out on the balcony and throw their beer bottles down in front of our house and their cigarette butts everywhere. Investigators say between March 2008 and January 2009, Gladden sent sexually explicit photos of himself via text message and behaved inappropriately with the girls in class and after school even supplying them with alcohol. Detectives are investigating whether or not any lewd acts were performed. It's very disturbing that someone in this position would take advantage of his students like that and victimized them the way he did. I trusted them, but now I don't know what to think.

Folsom Water Restrictions - It doesn't take any water to keep it up, because most of it's stone. Pat Homans of Folsom is ahead of the game, she's already made some major changes to her front yard to save water. So complying with the city's new water restrictions will be no problem. They tell us you can't wash down your driveway, so I'm sweeping it down. You have to do what you can do just to make it work. But for others, cutting back could mean some big changes in habit. During the summer it's going to be harder to keep the lawn maintained, but during the winter not too many people have pretty lawns anyways. Free flowing hoses are not allowed, you'll have to attach a spray nozzle to these. You also can't wash down your sidewalk, driveway or street unless it's for fire, sanitation or health reasons. Restaurants will only serve you water if you ask for it. Can I get some water please? There you go. Landscape watering is now restricted to just two days a week, between 10pm and 10am. Residents with a street address ending in an even number can water on Wednesday and Sunday. Those with odd number addresses can water on Tuesday and Saturday. With the Folsom Reservoir drying up quickly.. City officials say everyone must do their part. We're entering our third year drought. We've had two dry seasons. The lake is about one third of the capacity. That is the city's only source of water supply.

HANGOVER CURES - GOOD OL' H-2-O, WATER IS ONE OF THE MORE POPULAR CURES. ALCOHOL BLOCKS HORMONES IN YOUR KIDNEYS THAT NORMALLY KEEP YOU FROM RUNNING TO THE BATHROOM WITH EACH BEER YOU LOOSE MORE WATER THAN YOU TAKE IN LEADING TO THOSE AWFUL HEADACHES. ANOTHER POPULAR CHOICE SPORTS DRINKS. BECAUSE YOU LOSE ELECTROLYTES AS YOU BOOZE SALTS AND MINERALS NEED TO BE REPLENISHED, TOO. IF GUZZLING A CURE DOESN'T DO IT FOR YOU, HOW ABOUT POPPING ONE? OVER-THE-COUNTER PAIN RELIEVERS LIKE ASPIRIN, IBUPROFIN OR ACETAMINOPHEN ARE FAVORITES. THEY STAVE OFF THOSE HEADACHES, BUT USE THEM SPARINGLY AS THEY CAN DAMAGE YOUR LIVER. THERE'S ALSO VITAMINS B6 AND B12. IF YOUR BODY'S LEVELS OF THOSE VITAMINS ARE TOO

LOW IT CAN INTENSIFY A HANGOVER. TAKE THESE SUPPLEMENTS THE NEXT DAY AND YOU CAN SPEED YOUR RECOVERY. BUT AGAIN USE THEM IN MODERATION. IF NOTHING ELSE WORKS THERE'S ALWAYS THE HAIR OF THE DOG. SOME BELIEVE A DRINK IN THE MORNING WILL KEEP YOUR HEADACHES AND NAUSEA AT BAY. A HANGOVER IS PARTLY CAUSED BY THE BODY'S REACTION TO ALCOHOL WITHDRAWLS. THE IDEA IS PROVIDE THE BODY WHAT IT WANTS MORE ALCOHOL AND YOU'LL DELAY THE INEVITABLE.

Ripon Egg Recall - Organic brown eggs are being pulled from store shelves. The eggs could be tainted with salmonella and were sold at Costco, Safeway and Pack n' Save stores throughout Northern California, the Central Valley and western Nevada. So far, no illnesses have been reported. You think you can trust organic sources, It's a little scary. The recalled eggs were sold at Costco as Kirkland Organic Brown Eggs in 18-count cartons with expiration dates and plant codes April 1, 062, 35, P1776 and April 8, 069, 35, P1776. At Safeway and Pack n' Save, they were sold as O Organic Grade A Large Brown Eggs in one dozen cartons with expiration date and plant code April 1, 062, 35, P1776. In today's economy I wouldn't be surprised if people are just pushing things out slacking on the health issues, just to get food out there and make a dollar. No official comment tonight from Ripon-based den Dulk Poultry Farms but the owner tells FOX40 this is a precautionary measure and consumer safety is a top priority. I think a lot of organic agriculture is also large agriculture these days and so it suffers from some of the same lapses in structure and ethics.

GREEN GARDENING - HEDGE TRIMMER, lawn mowers. Jeremiah Noack - We are getting power from the sun that's not even up yet. Jeremiah Noack knows what it means to be earth friendly. The way we power all our equip is through a solar panel that's connected to an inverter and two 12volt batteries in the back of our truck and that solar power charges it all-- the mowers, weed eaters and hedge cutters. we don't use any gas in any of that- it's almost 60 per quieter. And zero emissions which is great for the environment. Noack co owns "environmentally green solutions"- a locally based landscaper in the business of beautifying your yard- and preserving the planet at the same time. Typical landscapers use about 800mil gallons of gas a year, 10per of nations emissions, we use only 1 per of those emissions- 2gal of gas in all our equipment all week long. In addition to their earth friendly equipment environmentally green solutions also has a weed killer made of cinnamon and clove oil. Jeremiah Noack, environmentally green solutions. With cinnamon and clove oil- it's so concentrated it will just burn the root systems.
We want our kids and our pets to be able to play in our yards.

Food Stop in Natomas Robbed - It was a rough start to the new year for the Food Stop in Natomas. Thieves broke into the convenience store and made off with a couple hundred dollars, some Gatorade, and some snacks including popcorn. We walked in with the cop and we noticed the cash register first.. One of the Gatorade doors was wide open. There was some chips on the floor there. When police got to the scene of the crime they found their evidence. Officers followed that trail of popcorn thru the parking lot and around the corner, which led them straight to the suspect's apartment. The kernels actually went all the way into the apartment. 21-year-old Tyree Brown was arrested. He spoke to us from jail about that night. We were getting drunk, high, having a good time and I guess at like 4 o'clock in the morning or something, police come knocking on the door. Brown denies the charges and says there were many people in and out of his apartment. He says, police have the wrong guy. They came talking about somebody robbed a store and all this type of stuff... and I guess they're trying to put it all on me. Certainly this is kind of unique in the sense that we don't always get led directly by popcorn to the bad guy. In that sense, it was a good pop.

Love Triange Murder in Rancho Cordova - NEIGHBORS HAD A FEELING IT MIGHT END THIS WAY. THERE WERE SIGNS SOMEONE WAS GOING TO SNAP. My understanding as far as I know was that it was just a relationship between three adults. A REPORTED LOVE TRIANGE SUDDENLY ERUPTING IN VIOLENCE AT THE PARK ROYAL TRAILER PARK IN RACHO CORDOVA. They heard a loud bang, they all ran in the bedroom. Mike was sitting on the floor with a gun crying" FRIENDS SAY THE SUSPECTED SHOOTER WAS FURIOUS HE FOUND ANOTHER MAN INSIDE THIS TRAILER SLEEPING IN THE BED OF A WOMAN BOTH ARE FIGHTING OVER. I guess Mike took matters into his own hands and made her choose his way!!" Investigators say the suspect seemed indifferent about the whole thing, in fact they say he called 9-1-1 and confessed to pulling the trigger." Obviously it's not unusual for these homicide victims to be known to the suspect in such a case, but it's unusual for sure to confess to a crime" NEIGHBORS SAY COPS HAVE BEN HERE PLENTY OF TIMES ESPECIALLY OVER THE PAST MOTNTH TO MEDIATE ARGUMENTS. BUT IT GOES WITHOUT SAYING, THIS CONFRONTATION WAS BY FAR, THE WORST ONE YET. We knew something was going to happen but never this!!"

Stockton Police Department Losing Staff - At full strength the Stockton Police Department employs 441 sworn officers, but that number is shrinking. Assistant Chief Blair Ulring, Stockton Police Department "our staffing today is 417 from an original 441 and we're still working our way down as we have a hiring freeze. That means fewer officers to respond to service calls and officers dedicated to preventing crime will be fewer, including community oriented police officers and school resource officers. Ulring - 'when we're just responding to service calls, it's difficult to get on the front end of crime in trying to do some of the preventative measures. Four academy trainees slated for graduation in February will laid of... part of a mid-year reduction designed to trim nearly 11 million dollars from Stockton's police department. Lonnie Wong - "while the pink slips involve only four trainees who have yet to hit the streets of Stockton, the layoffs may have a larger implication for the staffing in the department, those recruits were to replace officers who retire. That's not to mention civilian support staff. Ulring - "we've had 70 vacancies total department wide. It's a huge reduction in personnel.' The city gets most of its money from property taxes and sales taxes. Stockton has one of the highest foreclosure rates in the country and it's unemployment rate hovers at around 12 percent nearly twice the national average. That means police staffing will get worse before it gets better.

Bar Fight - Lincoln police have arrested a 22-year-old woman for allegedly being involved in a bar fight that severed the ear of her opponent. On Monday, detectives arrested Andrea Gabrielle of Lincoln on suspicion of mayhem. She was booked into the Placer County jail, according to a press release.
Police were called out shortly after midnight Sunday to a fight at Dillian's Bar and Grill at 605 G Street. Officers said they found a 23-year-old woman who had fought with Gabrielle. The woman, who had a severed ear, was taken to Sutter Roseville Medical Center for treatment, police said. Gabrielle had ripped off the woman's ear with her hands, police said. Doctors were able to reattach the severed ear, said Lincoln Police Lt. Terry Kennedy. Gabrielle, who had fled the scene before officers arrived, was identified during the investigation, police said.

SERIAL BANK ROBBER - THIS NEWLY RELEASED SNAPSHOT FROM AN OCTOBER ROBBERY IN CITRUS HEIGTS CLEARLY SHOWS A MAN MAKING NO EFFORT TO CONCEAL HIS IDENTITY WHILE HE MAKES THREATENING DEMANDS OF A BANK TELLER. "It shows some desperation on the part of the robber." SACRAMENTO POLICE TELL US THE SAME MAN IS LIKELY RESPONSIBLE FOR THE JANUARY 13TH ROBBERY OF THE BANK OF AMERICA ON NORTH FREEWAY BOULEVARD IN NATOMAS. HE ENTERS THE BANKS, GIVES A NOTE TO THE TELLER, CLAIMS HE HAS A GUN, AND GETS AWAY WITH CASH. HE MAY ALSO BE RESPONSIBLE FOR SIMILAR CRIMES IN PLACER COUNTY. HERE'S A JANUARY 6TH PHOTO FROM A ROBBERY AT THE BANK OF AMERICA ON DOUGLAS BOULEVARD IN ROSEVILLE. SOME INVESTIGATORS HAVE DUBBED HIM THE GOAT BANDIT BECAUSE OF THE GOATEE THAT HE SPORTS. AND IT APPEARS HIS REACH EXTENDS WELL BEYOND THE GREATER SACRAMENTO AREA...FROM CONCORD TO THE WEST AND REDDING TO THE NORTH. POLICE DEPARTMENTS IN SEVERAL CITIES ARE COMPARING NOTES. "There have been various photographs of him, and they've concluded that he's been responsible for all these robberies." WE'RE TALKING ABOUT A DOZEN INCIDENTS IN LESS THAN FOUR MONTHS. ROBBERY - They just ransacked everything, they had no regard for anything. They dumped everything out. Robbed of her valuables and robbed of her safety. I really feel violated, angry, I feel like my home is not my home anymore. Trina Rajadurai's Natomas home was burglarized a couple of weeks ago. Thieves stole everything from computers to booze to money and jewelry. All my jewelry box, they took everything out of my jewelry boxes. Sacramento police say there's been a series of burglaries in recent weeks in the Natomas Park area. Most of them happening during the daytime. Police say in many of the cases, the burglars are getting in thru unlocked gates, doors and windows. Needless to say, make sure those are secure and if you have an alarm system, use it. In Rajadurai's case they busted through her front door. The whole thing was out. The whole area was busted. She's now invested in surveillance cameras for her home. Many of the things the thieves stole are irreplaceable -- her sense of security included. I feel like they're watching me and they could come back. I don't feel safe.

SACRAMENTO BURGLARY - SHORTLY BEFORE SUNSET, SACRAMENTO POLICE QUIETLY SURROUND A SUBURBAN HOME ON MACON WAY. THEY ORDER EVERYONE TO COME OUT. THE FIVE OCCUPANTS PEACEFULLY COMPLY WITH THAT DEMAND. THEY ALL END UP IN HANDCUFFS WHILE INVESTIGATORS SORT OUT THE SEQUENCE OF EVENTS THAT LED UP TO THIS. LT. JAMES HENDRICKSON SAYS THE VICTIM OF THAT BURGLARY WENT ONLINE TO CRAIG'S LIST AND FOUND SOME OF HER STOLEN ITEMS FOR SALE. SHE ARRANGED FOR HER MOTHER TO BUY BACK ONE OF THE ITEMS...A DIGITAL CAMERA.
WE AGREED NOT TO SHOW HER FACE OR USE HER NAME. SHE SAYS HER MOTHER WAS DIRECTED BY THE SELLER TO COME TO THIS NATOMAS HOME TO BUY THE CAMERA, WHICH THE MOTHER DID BEFORE CALLING POLICE. IT TURNS OUT THIS CAMERA WAS A TREASURE TROVE OF EVIDENCE. INVESTIGATORS SAY THE SUSPECTS USED THE CAMERA TO PHOTOGRAPH THE ITEMS FOR SALE ON CRAIGSLIST, NEGLECTING TO DELETE THE PHOTOS BEFORE SELLING IT. AFTER HANDCUFFING THE OCCUPANTS OF THE HOME, SOME OF WHOM POLICE SAY ARE PAROLEES, THE OFFICERS SEARCHED THE HOME, SEIZING ITEMS INCLUDING THE GUN IN THE PICTURE WHICH TURNED OUT TO BE AN AIRSOFT RIFLE. "There's nothing on this gun to be able to tell you that it is not the real thing." INVESTIGATORS SAY AT LEAST THREE OF THE FIVE PEOPLE THEY DETAINED ARE FACING CHARGES. AS FOR THE ROBBERY VICTIM. "We're gonna be moving and buying a better security system, so hopefully it doesn't happen again."

Prostitution - She is lost and alone, waiting to be found and find a place that she can call her home. THIS SONG WAS WRITTEN FOR GIRLS WHO DON'T HAVE A VOICE THEIR ONLY EXISTENCE THE STREETS THEIR ONLY LOVE THEIR PIMPS. Believe in me... Believe in me. We look at these postings everyday and they're non stop, there's so many on there.. We can't reveal his identity but we can reveal what this undercover FBI agent does. He's one of four agents in Sacramento working to stop sex trafficking and keep pimps locked up. There's too much work for us to do when we're dealing with this. There's never a lack of work for us. We could go out and find underage girls everyday if we had time and man power. They use websites like craigslist, sacramento news and review and redbook to find these young girls. There are online chat rooms, ratings on girl's services and how closely they watch the clock. Instead of jons. The men looking for prostitutes call themselves "hobbiests" and the term "spinner" is used to describe a smaller, younger girl. The community is only just beginning to realize how bad the problem is. Jenny - I just started doing research on human trafficking, child prostitution, sex slave trade, I thought I was doing research globally but as I put those words into my computer, sacramento, sacramento, sacramento kept coming up over and over and over again. Minerva Shelton, FBI - It's shocking, it's shocking that Sacramento being so small has a huge problem with prostitution. They use this place right here a lot for prostitution also the motel 6 up here. (girl in pink pants) She's working, this girl right here. While many of these girls wear tight pants, short skirts and are more obvious in their soliciting. Others like this girl wear less conspicuous clothing. Still this undercover officer knows how to spot them.There's no homes up here, theres no housing here, nothing, she's got her cell phone out, she looks pretty young. She's in the car, yup she's in the car. Once the girl realized she was being followed by us she was out of the car in seconds. What's your name? Destiny, Destiny do you have any id?, I don't, I don't have my wallet with me. How old are you, I'm 20. This is the deal, this is why we stopped you, because we know this is a prostitution stroll out here, I'm sure you're working out here, we saw you get into the car. This is my F-ing (bleep) first time, this is your first time ever doing it, ever doing it my whole entire life. What got you to come out here, money. Minerva Shelton, FBI - "I would ask the girls why here, why did they bring you here to Sacramento, and their responses were that a lot of the johns pay good money here, but every dime goes to their pimps and these children working the street become known as "throw aways." They'd rather not deal with the problem so they're just considered throw aways than run aways, they're not literally thrown away, but hey I'm gonna run, go ahead, there's no effort to find them. Until the streets steal their innocence and drown out their voices, believe in me, believe in me.

Woodland child molestation - A Woodland resident was arrested Friday, Jan. 9, on suspicion of four counts of child molestation that allegedly occurred four years ago, police confirmed Thursday. Police arrested Brett Philip Pedroia, 29, at 1:28 p.m. at 814 Del Oro St., on two counts of oral copulation and two counts of committing lewd acts with a child between the ages of 10 and 14. The alleged victim reported the incident to police in another county, and those law enforcement officers contacted the Woodland Police Department in September, WPD spokesman Lt. Charlie Wilts stated. Local police arrested Pedroia following their own investigation, Wilts said.

Lumatech www.lumatech.com

Pedroia was booked at the Monroe Detention Center and was later released on $50,000 bail. A hearing is scheduled for Wednesday, Feb. 4, at 1:30 p.m. in Department 9 with Judge Timothy Fall of Yolo Superior Court.

ICE AND CRIMINAL - You have no immigration documents, no when did you last enter the United States, last, 2006. Here at the Sacramento County Jail, members of the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, along with local law enforcement interview 250 inmates a month they think are illegals. Michael Vaughn/I.C.E. - It's part of ICE's corp mission to ensure that we identify criminal aliens while they're incarcerated and place holds on them, process them, remove them from the community and ultimately from the country. Last year ICE located and placed 221,000 illegal criminals in removal proceedings...And during that same time the San Francisco office, which includes the Sacramento area issued 27,000 charging documents. But law enforcement says it's hard to get a handle on how successful we are locally in weeding out the illegal criminals. Sheriff John McGinness/Sacramento County - Frankly I think it's very difficult to quantify because the numbers are elusive, we don't have a real good history, we do know that we have several year of good news in terms of reduction of all categories of crime in this county.

RESTAURANT OWNER SEX ASSAULT - "oh nuh uhhhh." Sunomie Blackwell couldn't believe her ears when I told her of the arrest of 47 year old Daniel 'Big D" Caldwell. He's the owner of 'Big D's" barbecue on Grand Avenue. He coached his son's junior football team and was a community booster. Kitten Murdock, customer "there's always been the church choir out here playing and it's always been a respectable place as far as I've ever known." Police say Caldwell hired girls in the neighborhood to do odd jobs, and that some of them were sexually assaulted or touched inappropriately. Some incidents occurred at his home on El Camino Avenue during sleep overs with groups of girls and on group camping trips. Lonnie Wong - "police say Caldwell was an habitual offender and that there were at least eight female juvenile victims over the past 8 years." All were about Sunomie's age. Sunomie Blackman, customer "that's bad...I don't like that at all, I really don't?" Some say police waited too long. Chuck Larsen, Customer "that's what happens...one complaint, that's not enough, two complaints, that's not enough. You have to wait till they have a ton of victims that's wrong." Sunomie 'people don't want to believe us kids when we tell the truth." Police took earlier complaints seriously. Sgt. Norm Leong, Sac PD 'to be able to get a case to the point where you can prosecute and charge someone is a different matter."

Stockton Teacher Arrested - We were contacted by the father of the student victim yesterday morning at the Stockton police department. This woman, 24 year old McNair High school teacher Christina Oliver was then arrested by Stockton police for allegedly having sexual relations with the man's 16-year old son. The boy is also a student here at McNair. There was communication between the victim and the suspect via cell phone and text messaging and so forth. Students hadn't heard until we told them. Lauren Cain/Senior - Pretty shocking, I can't believe it was going on, and no one found out, I wonder how long it was going on for. Students we talked to are worried about trusting their teachers now. Laura Solorio/Senior - Some teachers are really close to students and knowing some teacher was doing that was pretty bad. They could have been more personable about it from the students point of view, whatever, he wanted to go after that, the teacher should have acted a little more responsibly. Parents were notified by voice mail from the school. Joe Orlando - What's disturbing to the parents was when they found out about what happened at the school they weren't told who the teacher was. Police say none of the alleged sexual activity happened on campus. Pete - We have no reason to believe that there are any other students that have been victims.

CHP HELPS SACRAMENTO CO - It's not just gang activity, It's drug activity, robberies, so much is going on period, tonight it's South Sacramento. But the CHP will be covering the entire city joining forces with Sacramento Police to fight crime. The main crimes we're concerned about are robberies, burglaries, narcotic violations, gang activity, firearms violations. 16 highway patrol officers and two CHP sergeants are now working hand in hand with police. On this first night of collaboration, officers made their presence known, making an array of stops. Police say this should send a strong message to criminals. You might want to pick another place to commit your crimes outside of Sacramento because we're going to be out there. We're going to be looking for you. Some people question its effectiveness. You know, for the most part. They hop from one area to the next. They see more police, they'll go somewhere else. It never changes, they just move. We do need them here to stop people for the right reasons. There's crimes other than a light out on a license plate. But officers argue simple traffic stops can often lead to major arrests. We find that traffic stops do yield criminals that are involved in other things. The presence alone deters crime.

DOWNTOWN DUI CRASH - THE CHARRED WRECKAGE TELLS THE STORY BUT NOT THE WHOLE STORY. AT FACE VALUE, WHAT WE HAVE HERE IS A VIOLENT CRASH AT THE CORNER OF 6TH AND N STREETS IN DOWNTOWN SACRAMENTO. POLICE TELL US THIS IS THE WORK OF A DRUNK DRIVER WHO LOST CONTROL IN THE RAIN AND PLOWED INTO A NUMBER OF PARKED CARS. WITNESSES SAY IT WAS HARD TO EVEN GET CLOSE TO THE WRECKAGE. "It was crazy man because the flames were up near the light and on several occasions there was explosions when the flames were going up. There was probably 3 or 4 pretty major explosions." BUT JUST BEFORE THE CARS ERUPTED INTO FLAMES, A GOOD SAMARITAN JUMPED INTO ACTION. HE HAD JUST ARRIVED HOME FROM A LONG DAY WORKING WITH FELLOW LAWMAKERS INSIDE THE STATE CAPITOL. "And heard a large crash outside my apartment building." WHEN HE HEARD THAT CRASH, SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ASSEMBLYMAN CURT HAGMAN PROVED CALIFORNIA LAWMAKERS ARE CAPABLE OF FAST ACTION. "Dropped down the briefcase, then went out and helped open the doors 'cuz they were jammed, and got the two people out of the car." THE MALE PASSENGER SUFFERED SOME MODERATE INJURIES FROM THE CRASH. THE DRIVER, ROCHELLE FIREBAUGH, WAS NOT HURT. BUT SHE WAS ARRESTED FOR DUI. SHE CAN BE THANKFUL SHE'S ALIVE TONIGHT. "Not too much longer when both cars were engulfed by flames." IN A "TRUTH-IS-STRANGER-THAN-FICTION" KIND OF TWIST, ASSEMBLYMAN HAGMAN HAS BEEN WORKING ON A BILL. HE CO-AUTHORED IT. A BILL THAT PROTECTS GOOD SAMARITANS FROM BEING SUED BY THE PEOPLE THEY HELP. "A lot of people would be hesitant to help if they're gonna' then turn around and be sued for helping. So this bill would hopefully let this happen where if you act in good faith, trying to help someone in need, that would protect you from being sued."

MODESTO PARK BEATING - THERE WERE ABOUT FOUR TO FIVE MEN KICKING HIM WHILE HE WAS ON THE GROUND, WENT UNCONSCIOUS, WHEN OFFICERS ARRIVED HE WAS JUST REGAINING CONSCIOUSNESS. IT HAPPENED AT GRACEADA PARK IN CENTRAL MODESTO. AS YOU CAN SEE IT'S TYPICALLY A FAMILY FRIENDLY PLACE THIS IS WHERE A 53 YEAR OLD MAN, HIS GIRLFRIEND AND HIS TWO TEENAGED DAUGHTERS PARTAKING IN A LITTLE NIGHT PHOTOGRAPHY WERE ATTACKED BY A HANDFUL OF VIOLENT YOUNG MEN, PART OF A LARGER GROUP OF GUYS IN THE PARK DRINKING. IT'S KIND OF SAD, THE KIDS HAD TO SEE THAT. I'M JUST TRYING TO IMAGINE WHY AT A PUBLIC PARK WHERE FAMILIES GET TOGETHER WHY WOULD THEY PICK THIS AREA. WHY WOULD THEY PICK ON AN INNOCENT MAN AND HIS FAMILY, POLICE SHARE THE OUTRAGE. THAT FAMILY DID ABSOLUTELY NOTHING WRONG, THEY'RE THE VICTIMS IN THIS, IT'S THE COWARDLY ACTS OF THESE VIOLENT INDIVIDUALS ENCROACHING ON SOMEONE ELSE PEACEFULLY ENJOYING THEMSELVES. PEOPLE HAVE NO PLACE TO HANG OUT AT NIGHT SO THEY COME HERE NEARBY RESIDENTS ADMIT THIS PARK SOMETIMES BECOMES A LATE NIGHT DRINKING

SANDRA CANTU MISSING - If they see her, just call the police department because I want her home. A mother's desperate plea to find her missing daughter. A candle light vigil was held outside Sandra Cantu's Tracy home in hopes the eight year old will be found safe. Would you please, please bring her home to us or take her to a police station or a church. Tracy Police, the FBI and countless volunteers have launched an all out search. We searched the fields last night and this morning. Flyers with Cantu's picture have been distributed throughout the city and posted on store fronts. Cars coming in and out of the Orchard Estates mobile home park -- where Cantu was last seen -- were stopped for questioning. She wouldn't go with a stranger unless she was forced into the car. She wouldn't leave the trailer park without being forced because she knows better than that. Police say Cantu went to play at a friend's house yesterday afternoon. They were sitting down coloring. They came in to see a movie. She returned home, but disappeared a short time later. We're concerned for the welfare of the child. We're trying to find a little girl. We're turning over everything we can to find her and make sure she's safe. I love her. I miss her so much.

TOBACCO TAX - THERE WILL BE A PRESS CONFERENCE TODAY TO ANNOUNCE A SET OF BILLS THAT COULD TAKE A BITE OUT OF SMOKER'S WALLETS. THE FOUR BILLS AIM TO INCREASE CALIFORNIA'S TOBACCO TAX AN ADDITIONAL $1.50 PER PACK. AND HOPEFULLY, REDUCE SMOKING RATES ESPECIALLY AMONG YOUTH. THE MONEY GENERATED BY THE NEW TAX WOULD GO TOWARDS LUNG CANCER RESEARCH, ENVIRONMENTAL AND HEALTH-RELATED PROGRAMS, AND ANTI-TOBACCO MARKETING.

Tracy Teacher - Patricia Gomez, Parent "extremely surprised and disappointed." By midday parents at George Kelly School were beginning to learn of the arrest. The 39 year old Llorente has been a substitute teacher in the Tracy schools since 2005. He also was active in children activities including coaching youth sports. But a two day assignment in late February in a 5th and a 6th grade classroom brought at least one complaint. Police say Llorente admitted to some behavoir. . .they determined it was a crime. Det. Nate Cogburn, Tracy P.D. "any inappropriate touching of any part of a child's body as long as you have that intent by the person doing it in abnormal interest in children or maybe a sexual interest in children." Llorente was arrested at his Tracy home where police took a laptop they say contained child porn. Some parents were upset. Patricia Gomez, Parent "I think there should be more of a background check and even then you never know." James Franco, Superintendent Tracy Unified School Dist. "he had his regular background check, DOJ clearance he'd been a sub for a while and had no previous complaints." Lonnie Wong "one parent was concerned when she heard the news but was willing to withhold judgement." Leslie Douglas, Parent "eight girls is a lot of people, but anyone can say anything and all of a sudden someone's picture is splashed all over the newspaper so we're innocent until we're proven guilty in this country."
