BANK OF AMERICA FORECLOSURES
VO :22

Bank of America says it is delaying foreclosures in 23 states as it examines whether it rushed the foreclosure process for thousands of homeowners without reading the documents. Bank of America is not yet able to estimate how many homeowners cases will be affected, a spokesman for the nation's largest bank says. A bank official acknowledged in a legal proceeding in February that she signed up to 8,000 foreclosure documents a month and typically didn't read them.

According to Dr. Bradford Talcott, M.D., Ph.D., and Chairman-Elect of the American Academy of Neurology, 13 percent of people deal with migraines and 18 percent of women. That means more than 190,000 attacks occur every day around the world.

The FBI and Homeland Security Department say they have no indication that terrorists are targeting the U.S. or its citizens as part of a new threat against Europe but they warn law enforcement authorities to be on the lookout for suspicious activity, as it's more difficult to detect terror plots carried out by individuals or small groups. On Sunday, the U.S. issued an alert to Americans living in or traveling to Europe to be vigilant because of the terror plots there.

VERIZON PLANS $50 MILLION REFUND TO CUSTOMERS
VO: 25

Verizon Wireless admitted on Sunday it had erroneously charged customers for data services they didn't want and said it would refund more than $50 million to those cellphone users. The announcement, among the largest customer refunds by a telecom service, comes amid complaints that users were unintentionally accessing the Web and using other data services, only to find those mistakes through extra charges on their monthly service bills. The Federal Communications Commission had been investigating the alleged practice and said Sunday it would continue its formal probe, which could lead to additional penalties on the nation's largest wireless firm. Verizon said that over several years, 15 million customers were charged from $2 to $6 for data services they didn't initiate. A source close to the company said Verizon Wireless will pay refunds to current and past customers for the error.

BAILOUT RETROSPECTIVE

The Treasury Department says the $700 billion financial bailout will cost far less than previously thought. A report on the program Tuesday says it will cost taxpayers about $50 billion. That's lower than the most recent estimate this summer by the Congressional Budget Office of $66 billion. Tuesday's report comes after two years of criticism about the programs that rescued banks, automakers and other failing companies. It says the programs achieved many of their goals despite being deeply unpopular. It says they prevented a deeper crisis and stabilized the financial system. The law was passed at the peak of 2008's global credit crisis. Its official end was Sunday.

11 LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES AGAINST SB 1070

VO: 20

Eleven Latin American countries want permission to urge the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals to strike down SB 1070, Arizona's anti-immigrant law. Mexico and a host of other countries petitioned the court on Monday in order to file friend of the court briefs that restate their opposition to the law. In its original language, SB 1070 would have allowed officers enforcing state, local and even civil code to pull over anyone they had "reasonable suspicion" to believe was in the country without papers. It also created a new class of state crimes and punishments for federal civil immigration violations. The law was met with international outrage and organizing. Seven lawsuits were filed challenging the law, including one by the Department of Justice.

At least six states are investigating the foreclosure procedures at Ally, JPMorgan Chase, or both. Ice said without a verifiable way to identify the loan's owner, it may leave cases open to more claims by homeowners' lawyers of faulty foreclosure procedures since some lenders will not be able to justify they indeed own a home loan. A letter from California congressmen released Tuesday said thousands of people in their districts have reported that despite efforts to seek loan modifications or other relief many financial institutions "routinely fail to respond in a timely manner, misplace requested documents and send mixed signals" about what is required to avoid foreclosures.

Today, The Nation magazine published the results of its year-long investigation that found that Lou Dobbs, the former CNN anchor known for his anti-immigrant views, had relied on undocumented labor for the upkeep of his estate and his daughter's show horses. Dobbs devoted so much time to railing against undocumented people that he managed to skew the national debate on immigration reform. While he off-handedly would acknowledge their hard work, he devoted the bulk of his radio and TV air time to made-up stories of diseases and invasions.

A pair of analyses by the nonprofit Brookings Institution paint a bleak economic picture for the 100 largest metropolitan areas over the past decade and in the coming years. The U.S. poverty rate is projected to edge toward 15 percent. They also come weeks before the Nov. 2 congressional elections in which voters anxious over the slumping economy will decide whether to keep Democrats in power.

Bank of America Corp., the nation's largest bank, is stopping sales of foreclosed homes in all 50 states as it reviews potential flaws in foreclosure documents. The company had previously said it would only stop such sales in the 23 states where foreclosures must be approved by a judge. The move comes amid evidence that mortgage company employees or their lawyers signed documents in foreclosure cases without verifying the information in them. "We will stop foreclosure sales until our assessment has been satisfactorily completed," company spokesman Dan Frahm said in a statement. "Our ongoing assessment shows the basis for our past foreclosure decisions is accurate."

UNEMPLOYMENT 9.6%

LOURDES MELUZA/ WASHINGTON, DC

PKG 2:04

The nation's bleak employment picture dimmed in September as private-sector hiring weakened and the economy lost a net 95,000 jobs over the month. The Labor Department said Friday that the unemployment rate last month remained at 9.6%, but that reflected a stagnant labor force in which people did not enter or return to the labor market to look for work. In what may be a more meaningful indicator this time, a broader measure of unemployed and underemployed workers, including part-timers who can't find full-time work, rose to 17.1% last month from 16.7% in August.

OBAMA - WEEKLY ADDRESS

VO: 18

Offering voters a reason to keep Democrats in power on Capitol Hill, President Barack Obama says Republicans would cut education spending and put the country's economic future at risk if they had their way. A quality education is paramount, Obama said. He suggested that federal spending on education is one area where he would not compromise. "What I'm not prepared to do is shortchange our children's education," Obama said Saturday in his weekly radio and Internet address. Obama has spent much of the past two weeks contrasting a GOP proposal to cut spending, presumably including on education, with the billions of dollars he's investing to improve learning from kindergarten through college. That includes money for public schools, community colleges and to help make it cheaper and easier for families to afford higher education for their children.

PKG 1:50

The jobless rate has now been at or above 9.5 percent for 14 straight months, the longest stretch since the Great Depression. The glum economic picture came Friday in the Labor Department's last monthly jobs report before the November election. Voter frustration over jobs threatens to cost Democrats control of the House and perhaps the Senate. "We have to keep doing everything we can to accelerate this recovery," President Barack Obama said. "The only piece of economic news that folks still looking for work want to hear is, 'You're hired.' And everything we do is dedicated to make that happen." The combination of limp hiring by businesses and more governments layoffs expected means unemployment could rise to 10 percent again this year or next. When Obama took office in January 2009, the unemployment rate was 7.7 percent.

This decision was filed in response to the defendants' motions to dismiss the case and the plaintiffs' motion for a preliminary injunction. Today's order is an important first step in challenging this unconstitutional law. The civil rights coalition will continue its legal fight until all of SB 1070 is taken of the books.

Bank of America Corp Chief Executive Brian Moynihan said he is "not so concerned" that an ongoing review of foreclosure documents will delay a rebound in the U.S. housing market. "The housing market is stable," said Moynihan, speaking to reporters in Boston on Thursday. He said factors like unemployment levels would have a much greater impact on home prices than the reviews now under way. Asked if he expected the reviews would affect the spring home-selling season in 2011, Moynihan replied, "Not that I see." All 50 U.S. states have started a joint investigation of the mortgage industry, focusing on allegations that some banks did not review documents properly or submitted false statements to evict delinquent borrowers.
