Crisis in Libya

Time: 6:00

Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton will travel to Paris to take part in an international meeting to determine what will be the next steps for dealing with Libya. Today, the secretary of state said the immediate objective of any intervention in this Arab country was to halt violence against civilians. The secretary stressed the "final result of any negotiation would have to be the decision by Gadhafi to leave." In a one-on-one interview with "Noticiero Univision's" DC correspondent, Lourdes Meluza, the secretary addresses the situation in Libya. Secretary Clinton also talks about former president Jean-Bertrand Aristide's return to Haiti after seven years of exile, despite U.S. objections and just two days before a crucial presidential vote. She also discusses why President Obama's trip to Latin America is so important for the administration.
