Abortion	WHP CBS 21 NEWS	July 17	11:45pm	30 seconds	TEXAS ABORTION BILL- the governor of texas says he will sign a new controversail abortion bill that passed the senate last night. The measure bans abortions past 20 weeks and requires abortion doctors to be within 30 miles of a hospital. This was the second attempt by supporters to pass the bill in the senate. It originally failed due to a filibuster. Critics say the bill will shut down abortion clinics in rural communities and force women to seek "back-alley" abortions. They claim all but five abortion clinics in texas will close. Seven other states have a similar laws.
Agriculture	WHP CBS 21 NEWS	July 9	6pm	1 minute	FARM BILL- a big change could be ahead for the government's food stamp program bloomberg is told house leaders will split food stamps from an upcoming vote on the farm bill. This would be a major departure from the norm - farm and nutrition programs have moved through congress as part of the same bill for more than 35 years.

Drugs	WHP CBS 21 NEWS	Sept 3	11pm	2 minutes	MOTHER PUSHING FOR MEDICAL MARIJUANA- Earlier this year Philadelphia County representative Mark Cohen introduced House Bill 1181 - to legalize medical marijuana in Pennsylvania. That bill was sent to the Health Committee is April...Cohen is about to receive serious support on that bill... From Parents - parents who believe their children can benefit from medical marijuana... to the typical parent - everything louann does to care for her 16 year-old daughter diana is a challenge...from brushing teeth... to just simple INTERACTIONS...Louann It's a little dilution off the chromosome, that means she's going to have seizures. Something louann's known since her child was a little more than a week old. Nine days old they started, and she's been on anti seizure meds since she was nine days old. Medications that she estimates cost in excess of two grand a month.... And haven't provided a "perfect solution" she's getting seizures at least two a week, which isn't bad on the spectrum.. 00.14 the drugs she's taking have terrible side effects. Louann watched a c-n-n report on "charlotte's web"... a strain of medical marijuana grown in colorado... full of cannabidiol (ka-nab-ba-dial) or c-b-d an ingredient used to successfully treat children who suffer from seizures... No I never in my wildest dreams didn't I ever think I'd be hitting this journey to get medical marijuana for my daughter. And this journey for louann is an uphill climb...governor tom corbett has said he'll veto any bill supporting the legalization of medical marijuana. (What do you say to people who oppose this?) Walk a mile in my shoes you don't know what I go through. Renowned professor of neurology elizabeth thiele recently said in part... "...it is my opinion that medical marijuana, cannabidiol (CBD) may have substantial medical benefit for pediatric epilepsy patients, as well as significantly fewer adverse side effects than many of the other anti-epileptic therapies available today." I want the best for my daughter, I want her to have the best possibility of becoming a normal functioning human being, I don't know of any parent that wouldn't want that for their child. Even if she doesn't say mommy I love you, just to look at me would be the most wonderful thing in the world.

Economy	WHP CBS 21 NEWS	Sept 30	5:45pm	1 minute 30 seconds	GOVERNMENT SHUTDOWN LATEST- The government will partially shut down in just 6 hours if democrats and republicans don't come up with a compromise in washington. Just under an hour ago-- president barack obama publicly put pressure on republicans to avoid a shutdown. He says it would hurt the economy and hundreds of thousands of government workers. These americans are our neighbors. Their kids go to our schools. They worship where we do. They serve our country with pride. They are the customers of every business in this country. And they will be hurt greatly. And as a consequence we all would be hurt greatly if congress chooses to shut down the people's government. Both parties are at a stand still-- debating whether funding for the president's healthcare law should be included in a temporary funding bill. Today the senate voted to take obamacare out of the equation-- and pass legislation that just focuses on keeping the government up and running. But conservative republicans are adamant that the bill won't pass until government funding is cut from obamacare. Rep. John boehner/ (r-oh) speaker of the house : "it's time for the senate to listen to the american people, just like the house listened to the american people." if there is a partial government shutdown: passports will be delayed, federally back mortgages and gun permits won't be processed-- and about 800,000 federal workers would be forced off the job without pay.

Education	WHP CBS 21 NEWS	Sept 23	6:45pm	45 seconds	EDUCATION FUNDING PROBLEM PROTEST- teachers -- parents -- and other advocates rallied at the state capitol to urge lawmakers to make education funding a top priority. The conference highlighted the on-going problems schools face as a result of state-wide funding cuts. Cbs 21 news spoke to one superintendent who says this directly affects the students. "when you furlough teachers, you're actually closing programs those kinds of issues bring me here to basically plead for support for the rural, small school district." education advocates say they already have more than one-thousand signatures on a petition -- calling for fair funding and investments in education.

Health	WHP CBS 21 NEWS	Sept 23	11pm	3 minutes	DNA UNRAVELLED- Dogs have 39, cats 19, a cow has 30 ... You and me have 23 pairs of chromosomes. You see me as that guy on tv, but who i am, is determined by my dna. Your saliva has all it takes to tell your story. We look at a million points in your dna and we give you personalized reports about what your dna says about your health and your ancestry. The tale is an amazing treasure trove of who you are. Including learning how much of a caveman you are. You have a high percentage of neanderthal dna, it's unclear exactly what that translates into. Now you can know what previous generations only could wonder about. "so that's why the sun makes me sneeze." from the whimsical to the serious "i might have an increased risk of heart disease, arthritis, gall stones." In your case you are at increased risk for of coronary heart disease, which puts you at an increased risk of having a heart attack. So knowing your genetic information may be helpful for you, in thinking that you may want to modify your diet, or exercise more to pay attention to your heart health. Over 300,000 people have used the 23 and me service and it is starting to have a real scientific impact. We can take the information about whether they have had a heart attack or thyroid disease and aggregate those over thousands of people and then we can identify new genetic markers. Before i took the test i was diagnosed with a thyroid condition and yes my dna showed me at a higher risk for thyroid problems. You also learn about how you may respond to many common drugs, but it is not just about your health. The future and the past, where did you come from? I was actually surprised at how european i am, with just a tatse of east asian or native american we can actually tell you, based on your dna what part of the world that your ancestors came from. People are often surprised, particularly people of mixed ethic ancestry are surprised to find that even though they are very dark skinned, they may actually have 25% european, caucasian ancestry. Outside of my kids, i have a few other close family member, but my dna showed me i have more cousins than i could ever hope to know. Often people find that they have 400, 500, over a 1,000 dna relatives in 23 and me and we can tell you approximately how related you are, maybe you are 2nd cousins, maybe you are 5th cousins and then you can connect with them if you'd like to learn more about your ancestry. You can have one giant family reunion, it would be so be big you'd almost need the giant center. My view is knowledge is power and it was almost overwhelming the amount of information you get for $100, even your propensity to certain mental health issues. This is an evolving area of science and for some sensitive data such as for alzheimer's they do ask you to confirm that you really want to know the results and of course if you do have questions about the information ask your doctor, there is also a large useers forum. So the next time i go all 'caveman' here at work, you know its only the neanderthal in me coming out.

					STAGES-- The FDA is considering fast approval for a drug test that treats breast cancer in it's early stages. The drug called "perjeta" is already used to fight breast cancer after it's spread to other parts of the body. A new study shows it can also be used soon after diagnosis - and is effective at shrinking tumors - making it easier to remove them during surgery. A panel of experts will review the evidence tomorrow and advise the FDA.
Political	WHP CBS 21 NEWS	August 29	11pm	45 seconds	FEDS LOOSEN UP ON WEED- The federal government is loosening up on pot. The fed announced today it will not stop colorado and washington from allowing recreational marijuana use. In a sweeping policy announcement-- the justice department outlined eight top priority areas for its enforcement of marijuana laws. They range from distribution to minors-- to stopping revenue to gangs and cartels. "the federal government...for the first time ever...has explicitly said that states can start adopting their own marijuana policy that they believe are the most effective and if they do it responsibly the feds will allow it. The announcement follows a comment made by president obama who said it does not make sense for the federal government to go after recreational drug users in a state that has legalized it.
