PRIMETIME LIVE - Third Quarter, 1998

Wednesday, July 1, 1998

"Rerun: Blood Money" — (Producer: Rhonda Schwartz) — Chief Investigative Correspondent Brian Ross in a Primetime hidden camera investigation into the sale of human organs. These organs, which are sold in the United States and other parts of the world, come from executed Chinese prisoners. According to the report, the Chinese army not only has knowledge of this practice, but also has been benefiting from it for years.

"Rerun: Girls In The Hood" — (Producers: Michael Bicks and Anna Sims-Phillips) — 3 parts — Two girl gang members take us inside the dangerous and deadly world in which they live — a world rarely seen on camera. Correspondent Cynthia McFadden travels to the streets of east L.A. and learns about the lives of Jokie and Mara, as they share their hopes, dreams, and brutal realities.

"Girls In The Hood Update" — (Producers: Michael Bicks and Anna Sims-Phillips) — Correspondent Cynthia McFadden revisits Jokie and Mara reporting the changes they have made in their lives in the time that has passed.

"Clinton Villa" — (Producer: Josh Gerstein) — Co-Anchor Sam Donaldson give us an inside look at the President's accommodations during his stay in China.

Wednesday, July 8, 1998

"Rerun: Side Story" - (Producer: Stew Harris) -- Chief Correspondent Chris Wallace examines the safety of various cars when they are tested for side impact stability.

"Doublecross" - (2 Parts) - (Producer: Jude Dratt) -- A six month Primetime investigation reveals how the US customs service tuned a marijuana smuggler into a big-time cocaine importer and looked the other way while he drowned America in billions of dollars worth of cocaine. Correspondent Forrest Sawyer talks to Rodney Matthews a drug smuggler turned informant.

"Good Housekeeping: Bug Spray" - (Producer: Valerie Parker) -- Correspondent Sylvia Chase visits the Good Housekeeping Institute to put insect repellents to the test.

Wednesday, July 15, 1998

"Rerun: Sex, Lies & Videotape" - (Producer: Allison Sesnan) -- Correspondent John Quinones investigates a scandalous life that one husband leads and finds that behind his adulterous behavior lies a very powerful drug known as the date rate drug.

"Rerun: Buried Alive" - (2 Parts) - (Producer: Jon Meyersohn) -- In an incredible story of human endurance, Correspondent Elizabeth Vargas interviews Stuart Diver who survived a massive landslide in Australia which killed 19 people including his wife Sally. For three days, Diver strained to breathe as he was trapped under the remains of his crushed home.

"Rerun: Primetime Lab: Phones" - (Producer: Beth Osisek) -- In this Primtime Lab, Correspondent Robert Krulwich examines why it is so difficult for people to find an available public phone.

Wednesday, July 22, 1998

"Rerun: All That Glitters" - (Producer: Ann Sorkowitz) -- Co-Anchor Diane Sawyer leads us on an investigation into the jewelry business where we find synthetic gems falsely being sold as genuine. We decided to go shopping for ourselves and see what we're really buying.

"Sarajevo Savior" - (Producer: Thomas Berman) -- Correspondent Cynthia McFadden reports on Michael Nicholson, a British journalist who has covered 14 war zones in the past 30 years, and his heroic effort in saving a child from the ravages of worn-torn Sarajevo. Nicholson's poignant story inspired last year's critically acclaimed film, Welcome to Sarajevo.

"Rerun: Boy Or Girl?" - (Producer: Thomas Berman) -- Correspondent Doctor Nancy Snyderman reports on doctors across the country who perform surgery on babies born with ambiguous sexual identities re-creating them into a specific gender. While this practice hopes that by altering the body doctors can make someone male or female, Doctor Snyderman learns that there exists new scientific evidence that gender is not defined solely by the body but the brain as well, and that medicine may not know everything about the male or female that lives inside.

"Rerun: Primtime Lab: Sleepy vs. Drunk" - (Producer: Robin Brown) -- This Primetime Lab examines the different affects of driving while intoxicated versus driving while over-tired and determines which is lesser of two evils. Co-anchor Sam Donaldson shares the results.

Wednesday, July 29, 1998

"Germ Warfare: Weapons of Terror" - (Producer: Terence Wrong) - (Hour - four parts) - In a PrimeTime report, Co-Anchor Diane Sawyer presents various terrorist scenarios and the reality of a potential biological attack. (OAD - 2/25/98)

> Part I: The Threat - Featuring experts at USAMRID, PrimeTime Live explores how biological weapons work and the havoc they may wreak.
>
> Part II: Black Biology - A PrimeTime Live crew travels to Siberia with Diane Sawyer to investigate the warfare capabilities of international labs, as she attempts to answer the question: What devises and plans do other countries have to take action against the United States?
>
> Part III: Terror At Home - What measures of prevention have been taken and what needs to be done to prepare for the possibility of a biological warfare attack on the United States?
>
> Part IV: The Response - PrimeTime explores how cities in the United States have responded to attacks.

NIGHTLINE IN PRIMETIME: CRIME & PUNISHMENT (Five-Part Series)
Thursday, August 6, 1998
This first broadcast of a five-part series, anchored and reported by Ted Koppel, begins with a look at the maximum-security prison in Raleigh, North Carolina. It examines the aftermath of one murder through the eyes of the convicted murderer, now serving time in Central Prison, and the victim's family.

Thursday, August 13, 1998
This second program, anchored and reported by Ted Koppel, explores the consequences of long-term warehousing of dangerous men, not only for the prisoners, but also for the prison wardens, guards and the society to which many will return.

Thursday, August 20, 1998
Part III of this program moves to Huntsville, Texas and the takes a look at the newest generation of prisons, which have redefined maximum security. This broadcast examines life inside the facility, and whether society is prepared for the consequences of prisoners who may return to society after years inside a super maximum prison.

Thursday, August 27, 1998
Continuing its report on super maximum prisons, Nightline In Primetime, examines how inmates circumvent the rules of even a high-tech prison, where video-cameras monitor inmates in their cells, and computers control water and electrically in each cell.

Thursday, September 3, 1998
By an overwhelming margin, Americans favor the death penalty. And in ever-increasing numbers, prisoners are being executed. This final episode focuses on the ultimate punishment: the death penalty. Koppel examines the circumstances of two condemned to die by lethal injection, the pastors who counseled them, and the families of their victims.
