for
2nd Quarter 2011
April 1 through June 30, 2011

Quarterly Summary:
April 2011-June 2011

April 2011:

Muni elections kicked off the month of April 2011. The mayor's seat wasn't up but many of the Assembly members were up for re-election. We blew out our 10pm newscast to cover all aspects of the election.

The 2011 Legislative Session was in its final weeks during April. The big battle was the budget and the lack of any significant legislation being passed. The session ending with budget issues not addressed.

A student at South High in Anchorage made a threat via Facebook to harm students and teachers at his school. The student was disciplined by the school district. However, as word got out about what the student did, it created fear among many parents who kept their kids out of school.

April was Sexual Assault Awareness month and KTVA teamed up with the organization Standing Together Against Rape or S.T.A.R. Each night in between commercials during the newscasts, we aired a pre-produced public service announcement about the dangers of sexual assault. It was a station-produced segment. We also did a story at least once a week and sometimes twice a week highlighting the different issues when it comes to sexual assault in Alaska.

May 2011:

May kicked off with the killing of Osama Bin Laden. We localized the international situation by talking to local Alaskans and local vets.

We broke the story about suspected cases of MRSA at Providence Hospital in the NICU.

The Legislature called a Special Session to deal with the outstanding budget issues, mainly the capital budget. We also took a look at how much the special session was costing the state.

Break up in Alaska led to flooding in the interior. The biggest problems were along the Kuskokwim River and communities like Aniak. Homes were destroyed and people's ways of living were uprooted.

We covered the shell fishing warning that seems to pop up every year this time. People who have died or becoming very ill from shellfish. Officials point to people clamming for their own shellfish and not properly sanitizing.

One of the two projects to get natural gas down to the Lower 48 from Alaska shut down. The Denali project announced it's ending its plan due to lack of consumer interest.

The month ended with wildfire season in Alaska taking a significant shape. The area of most concern for fire fighters was the Hastings area of the state.

June 2011:

June started with the murder trial of Kenneth Dion. Dion is on trial for the murder of Bonnie Craig. It was a missing persons case that captivated the community. Craig was a teenager when she went missing and was later found murdered. Dion was found guilty after weeks of testimony.

The month also started off with a fatal plane crash in Birchwood. A father, his mother and two daughters died after the plane they were in suddenly fell from the sky after take off.

For the fourth time, the Amber Alert was issued in Alaska. The report about a teenage girl being abducted from her home by a group of males went out all over the state.

Another tsunami warning went out for a portion of the state after an earthquake. This was the second time this year the state was under a threat of a tsunami.

Towards the end of the month a fatal accident during the PrideFest parade captivated the community. The annual parade for the GLBT community was cancelled. It also sparked anti-gay comments flooding local media outlets.

Governor Parnell ordered 400 million dollars in cuts from next year's budget. He made the veto order at the end of the month.
