JUNIOR WEATHER SPECIALISTS PROGRAM

The KSL Junior Weather Specialists (formerly Weather Labs) is a weather/science program for fourth graders. They are conducted at the Discovery Gateway Museum on Wednesday mornings (except the third Wednesday of each month). A limited number of on-site school visits are also made. Schools participating come from the public, private, charter, web-based, and home school sectors.

During each session schoolchildren, their teachers, administrators, and parents go to Discovery Gateway, a Salt Lake City-based children's museum, to meet with one of KSL's meteorologists to learn about science, weather, and broadcasting. Each group and experiment is taped for future on-air use.

The KSL Junior Weather Specialists is also available on ksl.com. Within the site one can find information such as "ask the Meteorologist," weather folklore, weather games, weather experiments, weather safety, and weather facts. Also, students and parents can click on and see streaming video of previously aired segments.

There were no KSL Weather Specialists sessions for the quarter.

Each 30 minute program is broadcast on Sunday mornings at 6:30 a.m. and is moderated by Chris Matthews. He is joined each week by a rotating group of four journalists. Either Andrea Mitchell or Chuck Todd, both of NBC News, will occasionally fill in for him.

- July 1 Guests: NBC's Pete Williams, the BBC's Katty Kay, Reuters' Joan Biskupic, and New York Magazine's John Heilemann discuss:
- Since Chief Justice Roberts joined the four high court liberals, President Obama has secured his place in history for his Health Care Act.
 - This Supreme Court is the oldest in nearly a century. The next president is likely to face vacancies making the stakes for left and right crucial this November.
 - Our panel talks about the single gutsiest move so far this year by any American politician.
- July 8 Guests: Politico's John Harris, the BBC's Katty Kay, the New York Daily News' S.E. Cupp, and Time Magazine's Joe Klein discuss:
- Is Mitt Romney's Mormon religion an issue this election? Does it matter? Of this 20 percent who resist Romney over religion, how many will actually vote for Barack Obama?
 - Kennedy's prophecy. A newly-discovered interview with Jack Kennedy about his religion shows him predicting the one-day election of a Mormon.
 - It's the anniversary of the lowest number in stock market history. That was the crash that swept Hoover out and brought Roosevelt in. What are the chances of another riptide like that?
- July 15 Guests: Time Magazine's Michael Duffy, NBC's Andrea Mitchell, The Associated Press's Casey Hunt, and The Huffington Post's Howard Fineman discuss:
- The campaign assistance and endorsement by previous presidents of the United States for the political contenders vying for the top seat in the White House.
 - Why is Bill Clinton more charmed by the Bushes than by Barack Obama? Is it about rivalry? Are these two both getting set on being history's new Democrat, the one who recaptures the American center?
 - Richard Nixon wanted to be president, Lyndon Johnson wanted to stop him. How these arch gamesman connived against each other over Vietnam.

July 22

Guests: Access TV's Dan Rather, CNN's Gloria Borger, The Washington Post's Kathleen Parker, and David Ignatius discuss:

- The horror in Aurora, Colorado, at the end of a week when the presidential campaign seemed small and petty to most Americans. Will Aurora possibly refocus the national conversation on bigger issues?
- President Obama is below where history says he has got to be right now if he is going to win in November, but he may be on time with his goal to use this summer to try and disqualify Mitt Romney as a guy whose business expertise came at the expense of regular Americans. Is the Obama plan working?
- The Romney running mate seems likely to be a safe choice, no Sarah Palin this time. But any chance that going safe is an overreaction?

August 19

Guests: The Huffington Post's Howard Fineman, NBC's Kelly O'Donnell, The New York Times' Helene Cooper, and National Journal's Major Garret discuss:

- Paul Ryan's old plan of privatized Medicare ignited a war. Team Romney says they saw this coming, but this fast, Mediscare has been a campaign mainstay since at least the '90s. Now, Paul Ryan may propel a candidate into the White House, but which one?
- President Obama is tapping into American's love of libation and revealed this week that the White House has been home brewing. It's all a way to paint the president as more relaxed next to the more rigid Romney.
- The president can't control the weather, but when asked to describe economic conditions like a weather report, everyone and a new focused group of swing voters gave a stormy forecast, even one predicting an earthquake/tsunami. Can President Obama convince them, the sun will come out tomorrow?

August 26

Guests: ABC's Sam Donaldson, NBC's Kelly O'Donnell, The New York Times' Helene Cooper, and the New York Magazine's John Heilemann discuss:

- With the official kickoff just days away, with the American presidency as the prize, who will seize the moment and make history? Can Romney rise above his awkwardness and captivate the country? Will the president reignite the furies that carried him to this republic's highest office?
- Ever since Jack Kennedy's charismatic debut in the 1956 convention, he or his brothers have addressed the delegates at 12 out of fourteen conventions. That's a span of 52 years. Let's relive that half century of inspiration today.
- Sometimes it's just a single line in the convention speech that spells doom down the road. Goldwater, Mondale, and the first George Bush learned that the hard way. Will Romney and Obama avoid the trap?

September 2 Guests: New York Magazine's John Heilemann, the BBC's Katty Kay, The New York Times' Helene Cooper, and Time Magazine's Joe Klein discuss:

- Romney vs. Obama - the challenger shows his weapons. The question now, can the president respond?
- Ryan vs. Biden - Paul Ryan is 27 years younger than Joe Biden. He has youth on his side, but does he have the weight for the VP division? Biden has the experience, but does he have the speed and accuracy?
- Let's look back at television history. Huntley-Brinkley go gable to gable in '56, John Chancellor gets arrested in '64 and our own Dan Rather gets bounced in '68.

September 9 Guests: Time Magazine's Michael Duffy, Bloomberg's Trish Regan, AP's Kasie Hunt, and Politico's John Harris discuss:

- Barack Obama gets propelled out of Charlotte. How does it look from here to the first debate?
- The two candidates start the final stretch running head-to-head with only a slight edge to Obama. But it's important--in the history of the Gallup Poll the one leading at this point nearly always wins. Will this year prove the rule?
- What's best for Hillary? If she hopes to become president one day, is she better off if Barack Obama wins or loses?

September 16 Guests: The Washington Post's David Ignatius, the BBC's Katty Kay, The New York Times' Helene Cooper, and the National Journal's Major Garrett discuss:

- What made Mitt Romney throw himself headfirst into a tragic event before he knew the facts? Was it to quiet his conservative critics? Was it to push the neocon line? Was it to fight the 24/7 campaign even on this dangerous terrain, and are voters going to remember how he looked doing it?
- Barack Obama didn't walk in bearing foreign policy experience, neither did a host of governors like Ronald Reagan and Bill Clinton. Both of them learned it in office. Could Governor Romney compete in this league?
- Obama was lucky to run against John McCain who declared the state of the economy strong when Lehman fell. With the economy still desperately weak, is Obama simply lucky against businessman Mitt Romney?

September 23 Guests: The Washington Post's Bob Woodward, the BBC's Katty Kay, NBC's Kelly O'Donnell, and Time Magazine's Joe Klein discuss:

- Is it Romney or the Republicans? What are we looking at these past few weeks--a failed political party or simply a failing candidate? If the GOP candidate loses, will it look like the conservative argument itself has been beaten?

- Everyone is saying it will all come down to the debates, but would no-drama Obama really give Mitt Romney an opening? Would he ever swing wild enough to let Romney turn things around? Or will he keep the bouts low-key and low risk?
- Help us celebrate our program's 10th anniversary by watching these time-capsule moments.
